The Science of Eating

To use a comparison; wheat does not have the vegetable glues the same as the coarser grains of corn and oats. Instead it is rich in phosphates of lime, iron, and sodium. Wheat absorbs more moisture in cooking and is, therefore, more delicate and better suited as a food for children. Wheat is properly prepared for food as California Wheatose. Flaked wheat food for breakfast. All good grocers.

Prof. R. A. Moore, of the Wisconsin Experiment Station, writing on the subject of barley, gave a little advice in last week's Homestead which might be heeded with profit by many of our readers. He points out its uses as a food for live stock, especially hogs, and calls attention to the fact that throughout a large part of the corn belt more pounds of barley on an average can be raised per acre than of any of the other grains. He expressed the idea that the growing of barley will to a large extent solve the difficult problem of getting a catch of clover, as it is almost ideal nurse crop. We find that there is not a single issue of The Homestead but what contains information that would be cheap if one had to purchase it at the subscription price for a year, and while we believe that the farmers of this community are a prosperous and up-to-date class, yet if The Homestead found its way into every home it would contribute materially to still greater advancement. Subscriptions for The Homestead are taken at this office.

TESTIMONIAL
Delmont, S. D., Dec. 17, 1902.
I used L. K. for hog cholera and it was all right. It cured my hogs. I had three sick ones and they all got well and done fine. I also used it for chicken lice and mites and it is all you claim for it. It is the only medicine for hog cholera, I think.
HARRINGTON, Neb., Dec. 11, 1902.
I am using Liquid Koal and am well pleased with it. I am sure I saved my hogs with it last year, and am going to keep it in stock all the time as it is the best thing I ever had on the place for everything it is intended for. It is good for chicken cholera, lice on stock, insects of all kinds; it will destroy all kinds.
